GRADING

Prime: Contains the greatest degree of marbling. It is generally sold to finer restaurants and to some selected meat markets. Prime grade beef is the ultimate in tenderness, juiciness, and flavor.

Choice: Has less marbling than Prime, but is still of very high quality. This is a popular grade because it contains sufficient marbling for taste and tenderness, while costing less than Prime.

Upper Choice: Refers to the upper two thirds of the choice grade.

Select: Generally a lower priced grade of beef with less marbling than Choice. Select has the least amount of marbling, making it leaner than, but often not as tender, juicy and flavorful as the other two top grades.

No Roll: Carcasses not graded by the USDA have no rolling stamp, hence the name “No Roll”. Since only the best grades of beef (Prime and Choice) justify the expense of optional grading, a large share of the beef sold in the United States is not graded.

MARBLING

“Marbling” is the visible fat on the cut surface of fresh meat. The amount and distribution of marbling is a major criteria for grading. Marbling fat melts during cooking, thereby increasing the juiciness of the meat, contributing to flavor and tenderness.

Moderately Abundant
The minimum marbling degree necessary to qualify for average U.S. Prime grade.

Modest
The minimum marbling degree necessary to qualify for average U.S. Choice grade.

Slightly Abundant
The minimum marbling degree necessary to qualify for U.S. Prime grade.

Small
The minimum marbling degree necessary to qualify for U.S. Choice grade.

Moderate
The minimum marbling degree necessary to qualify for high U.S. Choice grade.

Slight
U.S. Select grade must, at the minimum level, represent Slight.

STORAGE & HANDLING

Keep it Clean: This applies not only to the food preparation area, but to the receiving and storage areas as well. Use sound sanitation practices on the loading dock and in the freezer and cooler storage areas to reduce the exposure of potentially harmful bacteria to boxes and packaging that could be spread to proteins. Watch for wet boxes, which can be a sign of leakers, or vacuum bags with broken seals.

- Wash hands thoroughly, immediately before and after handling raw products.
- Clean surfaces and utensils before and after coming in contact with raw proteins.
- Store products on lowest shelf in the cooler to avoid cross contamination.
- Keep raw and cooked products separate during preparation.

Keep it Cold: Using thermometers and visual inspection, check product for temperature and signs of temperature abuse before accepting delivery. Immediately move fresh and frozen proteins to appropriate storage areas. Even small temperature changes can impact the safety, quality and palatability of the product later. Follow safe thawing techniques (1. under refrigeration, 2. under cold running water, 3. cook from frozen state) when handling frozen beef, and do not allow fresh or frozen beef cuts to remain unrefrigerated unless they are to be prepared immediately.

Keep it Moving: Practice FIFO – First In, First Out – to keep product moving in the order in which it was received. Rotating fresh proteins in this manner minimizes spoilage and avoids losses. Sound product procurement and rotation practices will help ensure food safety and maximize customer satisfaction. Proteins are highly perishable and simple mistakes or carelessness can impact your profitability and reputation if an incident of foodborne illness were to occur.
